

Pedagogy Coaching Machine Learning Training with Python

About Us

Pedagogy coaching provides bootcamp trainings which are live instructor-led interactive online sessions. We have well vast experienced trainers who are working in the data science industry to solve real world problems.

About Course

We provide affordable learning solutions to the learners who come from both programming and non-programming background. The course is designed to suit working professionals who want to enhance their existing skills or looking for a career shift or freshers who want to kick start their career.

All the concepts covered during the journey of this course will be from the basics to ensure learners are well versed with the core concepts.

Course Highlights

- Assistance on building resume
- Build a portfolio of work to have on your resume
- Best price across industry
- Provide Placement assistance
- Prepare for Interview

Pre-requisites

- An enthusiast who is looking to learn new skill
- No prior experience is needed (not even Math and Statistics). We start from the very basics
- A computer with internet connection
- All tools used in this course are free for you to use

What will you learn?

- Machine Learning
- Statistics
- Python
- Tableau and
- R programming

What we offer?

All the trainings will be instructor led sessions. This program is designed to make you industry ready by providing hands on experience on each concepts and projects at the end of each module.

A capstone project is also provided to test the knowledge.

Who should enroll to this course?

- Are you a fresher looking to kick start your career in the field of data science or an experienced individual looking to upskill or change roles? This course is just for you!
- Anyone with zero experience (or beginner/junior) who wants to learn Machine Learning, Data Science and Python
- You are a programmer that wants to extend their skills into Data Science and Machine Learning to make yourself more valuable
- You want to learn the fundamentals and be able to truly understand the Topics Covered instead of just watching somebody code on your screen for hours without really “getting it”
- You want to add value to your own business or company you work for, by using powerful Machine Learning tools